

Tactical Consulting

Meradia's Tactical group focuses on the detailed work required to successfully create and execute implementation plans - whether they be derived internally by a client or a result of our Strategic services.

What makes Meradia unique is our experience, our approach, our people and, most importantly, our results. Meradia provides the project teams to ensure that investment firms successfully achieve their project objectives - on time and on budget. By using our team, you can keep your staff focused on their day-to-day responsibilities, making sure your business continues to run smoothly, while our project team devotes 100% of their time to getting the project completed.

Meradia recognizes that many firms execute their own initiatives but require supplemental skills and/or subject matter experts to round out their internal team. To help ensure that such an implementation is successful, Meradia can provide the following types of project resources:

- Project managers
- Subject matter experts
- Technical resources
- Development resources
- Quality assurance

Meradia's professionals not only know the challenges that the investment industry faces, but bring the solutions to those issues. Our people all possess a broad background in the investment industry. Our staff has an average of fourteen years experience in the investment industry, including extensive experience working in project-based environments.
